Tech Goes Home Chief Advocacy Officer Marvin Venay Honored as One of Boston's Most Influential Men of Color

BOSTON, March 23 – Tech Goes Home (TGH) Chief Advocacy Officer Marvin Venay has been selected as one of Boston's Most Influential Men of Color for 2023 by Get Konnected!, an award-winning, nationally-recognized model for inclusive business networking and connection founded by Colette Phillips.

Since joining Tech Goes Home in 2021, Marvin has led the organization's advocacy efforts aimed at deepening awareness about digital inequity in Massachusetts – particularly among policymakers – and driving greater resources and policy support toward proven efforts to advance digital equity. Marvin and TGH focus especially on communities facing the greatest systemic challenges, including people of color, people from low-income backgrounds, immigrants, and seniors. Marvin and the team at Tech Goes Home recently secured a historic, $2 million investment from the City of Boston, as well as $500,000 in the state economic development legislation passed at the end of 2022, and have successfully expanded Tech Goes Home's programming beyond Greater Boston, into both Essex County and Western Massachusetts.

"I'm honored to be included among Boston's Most Influential Men of Color for 2023," said Marvin. "The men on this list are leaders in business, politics, and social impact doing groundbreaking work in violence prevention, health equity, economic justice, and more. I'm glad to be in community with them, and to use this platform to highlight how the work happening at Tech Goes Home is improving lives for people in Boston and across Massachusetts. I'm grateful to Colette, as well, for the work she does everyday to uplift people of color in our city, and to the team at Get Konnected! for bringing us all together through this recognition."

Marvin and the other awardees will be honored Tuesday, March 28 at The Grand Boston. For more information and to register to attend the event, visit Get Konnected!'s website.
